TRUSTS SCORED BY POMERENE

Ohioan Demands Rockefeller's Prosecution.

MANY VICTIMS SEEN IN OIL MAN'S PATH

Yet He Has Gone Unwhipped of Justice.

Senator Says It's Time People Understand Whether the Stars and Stripes Are To Be Emblem of Power or Emblem of Oil Barrel and Tobacco Tag—Declares Law No Respecter of Persons.

Washington, June 15. Making a direct demand for the criminal prosecution of John D. Rockefeller, Senator Pomerene, Democrat, of Ohio, delivered a powerful arraignment of Standard Oil and tobacco trust magnates in the senate this afternoon, serving notice of Rockefeller:

"His pathway is marked by a greater number of victims whose business careers he has ruined by his unlawful methods than that of any other man in the industrial history of this country and yet he has gone unwhipped of justice.

Speaking for myself," Pomerene continued "I think it high time the American people should understand whether the stars and stripes are to be the emblem of their power and authority or the emblems of the oil barrel and the tobacco tag."

Pomerene spoke on his resolution instructing Attorney General Wickersham to institute criminal proceedings immediately against the men behind the two big trusts.

"The law is no respecter of persons and the government ought not to be" the senator declared. "The poor and lowly are not above the law and the rich and the strong in combination ought not to be permitted to violate it with impunity.

No Respect Shown.

"No statute was ever more plainly written than the Sherman anti-trust law, or more easily understood by those who want to understand it. Any $100 country lawyer can tell what this law means. It takes a $100,000-lawyer to point out ways to evade its provisions. The vast corporations and their learned counsel attempt to warp the law to conform it to their business

"What excuse can any sworn official give to the people of this country for a failure to enforce this law, when they are every day exerting themselves to punish other transgressors with less money and less influence at their command?

"What respect have these oil and tobacco men shown for law? The history of the Standard Oil company and its allied interests has been a monotonous record on their behalf and on behalf of their officers, including John D. Rockefeller, to monopolize the oil business and to destroy by means, fair or foul. But, it is said, he is not responsible; that he retired from active business more than ten years ago.

"Do you mean to tell me that a man can organize a band of law violators to furnish them with the sinews of war serve as their captain, mark out and guide their course for a generation and when he has grown tired, can still continue in it the same way through other agents, receive the greater portion of the earnings and be never be responsible for his acts either civilly or criminally? He can not be above the law.

Prosecutions against these oil and tobacco men should be brought in every district in which there has been a violation of the law, in order to teach them that they, too, must obey the law. Is the government now frightened at its own victories?"

UNEARTH ANOTHER BLACK HAND CRIME

Chicago Police Puzzled Over Murder of Fetko.

Chicago, June 15.—In the finding of the body of a man believed to have been Philip Fetko, the police, today, believe they have unearthed another Black Hand murder.

The body, covered with fifteen knife wounds, was found in a portion of the city remote from houses. The man had made a desperate resistance, the flesh being stripped from his hands, showing that he had grasped the blade of his assailant in his fight for life. A thin butcher knife was found near the body.

In the pockets the police found sixty cents and a deposit book showing that the man had several hundred dollars on deposit with the Polish Building & Loan association.

Eight Bodies Recovered.

Rome, Italy, June 15.—Eight bodies have already been recovered from the wreck of a spinning mill here today in which hundreds of women were employed. The mill was blown down during a storm. Many workers are unaccounted for.

SCREECH OWL IS CAUSE OF DEATH

New York Bride of Few Months Expires Suddenly.

New York, June 15.—Wrought into a frenzy of superstitious fear after she and her husband had been for several days followed in their walks by a screech owl that at times almost brushed their faces as it swooped past them ominously hooting, Mrs Joseita Coonan O'Neill bride of a few months, today lies dead at her home near Babylon, Long Island Last night, the owl hurled itself, screeching, against the window screen of her bedroom After the bride's mother heard her call, she went in to find her daughter dead from an attack of apoplexy, which physicians said was induced by extreme fear.

POISON CASE ONLY DEEPENS

Delaware Mystery Is Far from Unraveled.

SENSATION STIRS COLLEGE TOWN

Husband Won't Desert Accused Woman.

Wife Declares Husband Will Stay by Her Despite Cruel Stories That Come to His Ears—He Is Buffeted Between Love for Daughter and Sacred Duty to Wife—Detective Goes to Wheeling for Evidence.

Delaware, O., June 15.—Detective William B. Matthews left here early this morning for Wheeling, West Virginia, where he will superintend the exhuming of the body of Edgar Way, former husband of Mrs. Jessie Way-Henkle, who was arrested, Monday, charged with administering arsenical poisoning to her twenty-one-year-old stepdaughter, Myrle Henkle.

Way died suddenly April 19, 1909, it is alleged, and an examination of the body will be made to ascertain if he met his death from the effects of poison, according to the authorities, the outcome of this investigation will have an important bearing on the Henkle case.

Mrs. Henkle's former husband had been a linotype operator for fifteen years preceding his death and had worked on the Charleston Gazette and the Wheeling Register. Mrs. Henkle states that his death was due to lead poisoning and that he had been in poor health for several years preceding. This statement is denied by the authorities. Detective Matthews received the telegram to come to Wheeling from Howard Hastings, chief of police of that city, at 11 o'clock last night.

Remains Mutual.

Buffeted between the love for his daughter and his sacred duty toward his wife, John D. Henkle, Delaware traveling salesman, father of pretty twenty-one-year-old Myrle Henkle, who accuses her stepmother, Mrs. Jessie Way-Henkle, of poisoning her, still refuses to announce his allegiance to either party in the greatest sensation this quiet, college town has ever experienced.

"John has promised that he will not desert me," said Mrs. Henkle as she shuddered at the thought of such ever happening. "He has told me he loves me and will stick by me and I believe him in spite of all the cruel stories that have come to my ears."

Friends of Miss Myrle Henkle are equally as persistent in statements to the effect that the father's sympathy is with his daughter. Henkle maintains the Sphynx-like silence which he adopted Monday, and will not commit himself.

Mrs. Henkle moved from the Jane M. Case hospital, where she was removed last week when thought to be suffering from a nervous breakdown, to the "Old Castle, an historic student boarding and rooming-house.

Storm Sweeps Sea.

EDUCATION OF THE CHILDREN

Professor Sidis Assails Modern Methods.

SEES MEDIOCRITIES ONLY PRODUCED

Parents Must Change Existing Conditions.

The Proper Way To Educate a Child Is To Begin at Age of Two and by Answering and Encouraging Infantile Questions the Child Will Readily Acquire the Necessary Knowledge.

New York, June 15.—Bitterly assailing the modern methods of education which he characterizes as calculated to produce the largest possible number of mediocrities, Professor Boris Sidis, M. A., Ph. D., M. D., father of the twelve-year-old genius who created a sensation at Harvard, today issued from the press a treatise on the proper way to care for children. Instead of the course of study given his son having harmed the child, Dr. Sidis insists that the youth is today in far better physical condition than the average school boy four years older

The proper way to educate a child is to begin at the age of two, says the doctor.

"By answering and encouraging all infantile questions." Sidis continues, "the child will acquire knowledge with the same ease as he learns to ride the bicycle. By the tenth year, the child will have acquired knowledge which at the present time the university graduate only obtains with infinite labor and pain

"The fathers and mothers must change existing methods The present school system squanders the resources of the country and wastes the energies and lives of our children."

Epigrams of Sidis.

The American nation entrusts the fate of its younger generation to the carelessness of young girls, or the fire of old maids, all ruled by pettifogging officials encrusted with educational red tape methods of discipline and routine.

America's school systems are ruled by bureaucrats animated with hatred toward talent and genius

Never in the history of mankind have school teachers fallen to such a low level of mediocrity as in our country.

American children at the age of ten and eleven are little brutes and waste their most precious years of childhood in the close, dusty, overheated school-rooms.

There are in the United States 200,000 insane persons, while the victims of psychopathic mental maladies reach into the millions. This is entirely preventable, and is the result of our wretched brain-starving and mind-crippling method of education.

BIG BREAD COMBINE MAY HIT OBSTACLE

Is Likely To Run Afoul of Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Washington, June 15.—Whether the $25,000,000 "bread trust" just formed by combination of twenty-one baking companies in nearly as many cities of the East and Middle West, is likely to run afoul of the Sherman anti-trust law, was the subject of considerable discussion here today, among lawyers and congressmen.

Independent bakers here declared their belief that the "trust" would at once start a price-cutting war, in which it would be certain to triumph because of its enormous resources. It was pointed out by several congressmen that posibly there might be a difficulty in the way of applying the Sherman law to the combine, in case the question ever arose, because it was not certain that the bread produced by the "trust" moved in interstate commerce.

In its "statement of principles," the "trust" declares that the combine was effected in order to "cheapen the cost and institute more economical, scientific and up-to-date methods in manufacture, thus giving the people better quality"

"PIGS IS PIGS" WITH OR WITHOUT TAILS

Indiana Judge Decides Perplexing Question Today.

Booneville, Ind., June 15 — Whether a pig is still a pig after its tail has curled, or has then become a hog, was the weighty question decided here, today, by Judge Roberts. The court held that "pigs is pigs" with or without curls.

The decision was rendered in connection with a case charging Henry Koutz with stealing two "pigs." The defense sought to have the case dismissed on the ground that as the animals had curled tail, the affidavit should have read "hogs."

RICARDO MAGON LANDS IN JAIL

Madero's Opponent in Charge of Uncle Sam.

JUNTA'S HEAD SAYS TREASURY IS EMPTY

Liberals Are Greatly in Need But of Funds.

Declares That If Liberal Party Had the Money It Would Sweep Madero and De La Barra Out of Power and Give Government Over to the People—Says Cientificas Are Most Plutocratic.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 15. In his cell here awaiting a hearing before a United States commissioner on the charge of "violating the American neutrality laws by hiring men to go from Los Angeles to fight the controlling government in Mexico there," Ricardo Magon, head of the revolutionary junta here, today told of the difficulty his party has in raising funds to continue the rebellion He denied reports from El Paso that the Magonistas offered flattering sums to Americans to join the rebels in Lower California

"If we had money the Liberal party would sweep Madero and De La Barra out of power very quickly But we haven't one cent in the Los Angeles treasury What money we received comes from Liberals and sympathizers and they were all very poor"

The Cientifico party which has millions behind it is opposed to Madero Rosenda Pinenda, head of this faction, with the banks of Mexico, are against Madero tooth and nail and they are furnishing the sinews of war for Madero's opponents

"It is the Cientificos who are spending the money at El Paso and not our party," said Magon

"Of course," he continued, "we can not align ourselves with the Cientificos for they are even more plutocratic than the Maderists and it would be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire if we aided them in overthrowing Madero. They are seeking Madero's overthrow, exactly as we are, but for different reasons"

THE SEAMEN'S STRIKE WANES

Leaders Admit the Outlook Is Gloomy.

SAY ENTHUSIASM IS NOT LACKING

Conditions Confronting Men Is Cause.

Leader in Charge of London Headquarters Declares Men Desire To Keep Within the Law and None Will Quit Before Contracts Are Completed—Ship Officials Take Another View of Situation.

London, June 15.—Although the general strike outlook today was admitted by the officials of the Seamen's union to be less satisfactory than their early predictions had led the public to expect, Ben Tillett, in charge of headquarters here, explained that conditions confronting the men, and not lack of enthusiasm, was the cause

The officials of the shipping federation, representing 15,000,000 tons of British shipping, characterize the movement as a fizzle They say that only a few men went out and that a number of these are ready to come back.

Another View.

Secretary Borth announced, today, that the federation will fill the places of all of the strikers and will blacklist the men who deserted

According to reports received here, the strike is in progress in London, Glasgow, Salcids, Middlesborough, Belfast, Bristol, Cardiff, Swansea, Manchester, Newcastle, Liverpool, Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Antwerp.

Strike-breakers were at work on the London docks, today recruiting a crew for the Empress of Ireland and the Teutonic, and it was said they would have men enough for the steamers to get away Saturday. Whether the channel crews and the vessels running out of French ports are to quit will be decided tonight. Various boards of trades in the cities already affected are appointing conciliation committees and hope to force a speedy settlement.

OTIS ASSAILED BY ROOSEVELT

Colonel Takes Up Dynamiting Matter.

CONTRIBUTING EDITOR CALLS GOMPERS FAIR

Says Labor Leader Takes Honorable Stand.

Certain of Capitalistic Papers of the Stamp of Los Angeles Times Held Responsible for Far More Brutal Utterances Than Can Be Attributed to Any Recognized Labor Leader, Says Roosevelt.

New York, June 15.—"Certain of the capitalistic newspapers of the stamp of that owned by General Otis have been responsible for far more brutal utterances than can be attributed to any recognized labor leader," says Theodore Roosevelt in a leading editorial in a current New York magazine, headed 'Mr. Gompers, General Otis and the Dynamite Charges."

The article is Colonel Roosevelt's direct answer to editorials of General Otis in the Los Angeles Times and President Gompers in the American Federationist. Roosevelt refers to his original editorials on the McNamara arrests in a magazine which, he says, was only a personal plea for a fair and impartial trial of the accused men. He then quotes the following as General Otis' reply to him:

"'If the Times building was dynamited, says Mr. Facing Both Ways, then those who did the work should be punished. The Times feels that the 'if' is an upholding of the cause of disorder and a distinct aid to the villains who incited and procured the murder of twenty innocent men and the destruction of $500,000 worth of property."

"General Otis, in this article has taken the very position against which all good citizens should protest when taken by the labor men," continues Roosevelt. "That is, the purpose of my article was to protest against the assuming before the trial what it was hoped to prove or disprove at the trials; and in this way General Otis is guilty of conduct which could not be too severely denounced if the offender were a labor leader, and which, therefore, can not be too severely denounced when the offender is a violent opponent of organized labor and a consistent enemy of every movement for social and economic betterment—just as he has shown himself the consistent enemy of the men in California who have dared resolutely to stand against corruption and in favor of honesty.

"The article by Mr. Gompers in the American Federationist offers the most striking contrast in tone and temper to the article of General Otis. Mr. Gompers' editorial is a fair and honorable statement of a position with which I only in part disagree, couched in language which warrant respectful and careful attention.

Otis' Attitude.

"The attitude of General Otis in his paper affords a curious instance of the anarchy of soul which comes to the man in conscienceless fashion deifies property at the expense of human rights—no less surely than it comes to the man who in the name of human rights wars upon all men of property good and bad."

Roosevelt then quotes Gompers' invitation to read current trade union literature to secure first-hand information of the labor union situation and says

"This is an honorable invitation expressed in an honorable way, and I shall certainly take advantage of it Mr Gompers says that the trades unionists only want a fair trial That is all I wish Let us find out who is guilty and who is innocent * * * Now let me most earnestly ask Mr Gompers and those associated with him in the cause of labor that they, in their turn, make it equally evident that they do not intend to stand by the men right or wrong that they wish them to have an absolutely fair chance to prove their innocence, but that they will join with every other citizen in hearty condemnation of them and will endeavor to bring them to punishment if they are guilty No feeling of hostility to the Los Angeles Times must be allowed to interfere with this

"It may be quite true that this paper has again and again shown itself to be as much an enemy of good citizenship, of honest and decent government and of every effective effort to secure fair play for workingmen or women, as any anarchist could show himself to be But that has nothing to do with the case. If the paper dynamited had been a Socialist paper in Milwaukee, I should strive just as hard to bring to justice the wrongdoer as now when the paper dynamited happens to be a capitalist paper in Los Angeles."

How the People Can Get Good Government

NEBRASKA GOVERNOR TALKS IN COLUMBUS

Ohio State University Graduates Addressed

Black Water State Executive Former Ohioan in Speaking on Progressive Citizenship Declares United States Senate Is Most Distrusted Legislative Body in the World—Present Day Methods Discussed

Columbus O June 14 In what home the principle that people can ge good government if they strive for it and using the progressive laws of his own Nebraska as an example of what the public once aroused can obtain Chester A Aldrich, Republican governor of Nebraska delivered the commencement address to the graduating class at the Ohio State university this morning Governor Aldrich denounced as traitorous the lawyer or man of talent who goes to congress or legislatures and serves the corporation against the public good Among other statements of an equally startling nature he pointed to the United States senate as the most distrusted legislative body in the world His subject was Progressive Citizenship He said in part

Progressive citizenship in its fundamentals, among other things holds that the vast amount of wealth that is cemented together to stifle competition to kill individual enterprise, to corrupt legislators is not only wrong but more it is a murderous assault upon the basic principles of representative government

This progressive citizenship recognizes that one of the serious problems presented for solution is none other than the situation found in the law-making power of our land

In Modern Times.

In modern times it has come to be quite the thing for the eminent lawyer or man of talent who goes to congress or the state legislature to forget that he is the counsel of the people of the whole state or nation, and under pressure and often for a consideration, remembers the corporation

Time was when one man by the force of his genius and the might of his leadership could stand up in the United States senate and dictate the principles and policies of government to more than 70 000 000 of alleged freemen

But now and then from out the West would come a La Follette a Cummins or a Murdock brainy patriotic and courageous standing up in the halls of our national legislature challenging the right of one man or set of men to frame laws for the benefit of corporate interests without regard to justice or even common decency

The most distrusted legislative body in the world today is the United States senate I do not need to say to an audience of this kind that it could at this moment name to you senator after senator who has been there in that exalted august body from six to thirty years who during the whole of his career never introduced or championed a single measure in behalf of the common people of this country

Had the leadership of the United States senate been composed of men far enough to look all interests from a standpoint of all the people there would no today be an extra session of congress

ALONZO ORR DROPS DEAD LAST SATURDAY

Mr. Orr's Body Found on Front of a Wagon.

HEART TROUBLE THE CAUSE OF DEATH

Coroner W. H. dHinklin Is Called Saturday—The Deceased Leaves a Widow and Five Children—Is Sixty-Six Years of Age and Resides South of Agosta.

Agosta, O., June 10.—[Special.]—Alonzo Orr, aged sixty-six years, fell dead in his wagon as he was driving in from a field of the Croft Bauer farm, south of here, this morning about 7 30 o'clock Mr Bauer and Mr Orr had been working in the field and were returning to the house, when Bauer stopped and went to a nearby well, while Orr drove on to the barn, where a little later his body was found across the front of the wagon.

Orr's body was found soon after death occurred by Mr Bauer. While enroute to the barn, Bauer saw Orr's hat where a turn was made in the road, and he immediately went in search of him Coroner W. H. Hinklin, of Marion, was immediately summoned, as was also Dr S. M. Hesser, of LaRue Heart trouble is given as the cause of death.

Aside from his widow and a son, Alva, who resides at home, three daughters and a son reside in Marion county, together with a daughter, Mrs. Richard Carey, of Akron. Those residing in Marion are:

Mrs Andrew Payne, Elijah Orr, Mrs. Harry Carey and Mrs. Lona Chapman

Mr Orr had been a resident of this vicinity for many years and was widely known. He made his home about one mile south of Agosta The Bauer farm, where he was working, is located about one mile southeast of here.

Poor Simile.

"I never saw any one so timid as Henpeck is," remarked Wigger. "Why, he's like a mouse in his own house."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Wagger. "His wife isn't the least bit afraid of him"

Fearless Queen Sophie.

In 1860, when the combined armies of Victor Emmanuel and Garibaldi attacked Gaeta, Queen Sophie of Naples conducted the defense, her husband, Francis II., being utterly unnerved. Most of her time was spent upon the ramparts, where she remained during the hottest fire. She was absolutely without fear. Once when a bomb burst in the room where she was dining with her husband and his suit she walked to a mirror that hung on the wall and, noticing that her hair was whitened by the plaster the bomb had scattered, remarked: "What a pity powdered heads are out of fashion! White hair suits me admirably."

Long and Short.

"What's all this trouble about the long and short haul?" demanded the secretary of the woman's club.

"It's this way," explained the treasurer. "Some dressmakers say a train ought to be six feet in length. Others say three feet is enough."—Washington Herald.

Mr. Johnson purchased the site for New York clients and immediately after closing the deal, left for that place to confer with the parties he represented in the purchase.

The price paid for the property, as it now stands, was $15,000, this being $5,000 more than the highest bid made to the company It is the understanding that the purchasers will construct a fine up-to-date theater to replace the beautiful playhouse that was destroyed by fire November 6 of last year.

UNFORTUNATE YOUNG MAN IS FOUND INSANE

Carl W. Sifritt Is Taken to the State Asylum.

HE CAUSES HIS FATHER GREAT DEAL OF TROUBLE

The Young Man Has Knowledge of Right and Wrong, but Says He Can Not Resist the Temptation To Write Checks—An Inquiry Held in the Probate Court.

Obsessed by a mania for writing checks, Carl W Sifritt, twenty-six years old, a school-teacher, was taken to the state asylum for the insane in Columbus by Sheriff John G Stark, Saturday. He was adjudged insane in the probate court, Friday afternoon, after Drs. C E. Sawyer and Robert C M. Lewis made an examination of his mental faculties

A year or two ago the young man attempted suicide. He is a son of Joseph W. Sifritt, a well-known Green Camp township farmer

Several years ago, young Sifritt went to Cleveland to work While in the Forest City he got in fast company and went the pace. His father refused longer to provide him with all the money he wanted Some time ago, when Sifritt began to write checks to get money, his father filed an affidavit in lunacy against him. This was later dismissed when he promised to reform and stop his wildness. Recently he has been in frequent trouble, writing a number of checks on Marion and Delaware business men.

The medical certificate covering his case, filed by Drs Sawyer and Lewis, stated that Sifritt knows he is doing wrong in obtaining money by means of bogus checks, but declares he can not resist the temptation. It further states that he has a habit of running off and staying away from home for weeks at a time without letting his parents know anything about his whereabouts.

Sifritt is disposed to be ugly when he becomes sulky, and the doctors declared that he might commit some atrocious crime if he were not carefully watched.

THE STATESMAN VETOES AND POLITICIAN APPROVES

Everybody in Ohio who is at all interested in the progress of the state has a vital concern in the building and maintenance of improved highways. They realize that good roads wipe out distances, promote commerce, increase the value of outlying lands by making them accessible to markets, help to rid the farms of a measure of the isolation and loneliness, that make life on them seem unendurable to so many young folk, and generally are an aid to the advancement of civilization and its attendant comforts and enjoyments.

Everybody realizes that under our unsystematic, unpractical and grafting methods of the past, Ohio has wasted enough money to have made permanent highways out of all the main-traveled roads in the state. And so, all welcomed the dawn of the new day when roads were to be built upon scientific plans, under state supervision, by contract and at the general expense. A state highway department was created and has accomplished much good work. The general assembly which has just adjourned went, in response to the demands of active workers in the cause, and passed a bill providing for the levying of a tax to meet an appropriation of $4,000,000 for road work.

Those whose hearts were in the movement, who worked hard to secure the passage of the bill, will be greatly disappointed that the governor has found it to be necessary in his judgmen to veto the measure. We share their regret at the outcome, but we believe that the governor was right, and that he could not wisely have acted otherwise.

We have embarked upon an experiment with regard to an amendment to our taxing system which makes problematical all questions relating to our revenues. Under the inelastic tax provisions of our constitution, all property without discrimination as to kind or quality was required to be returned for taxation "at its true value in money." Under this provision, and the crude machinery devised to make the appraisement and enforce the return, many inequalities grew up, which led each man to constitute himself and his conscience a board of equalization in his own behalf. This brought about a decrease of revenues and this, as certainly, an increase of the rate.

Governor Harmon, following in part the recommendations of the commission appointed by Governor Harris, has urged a return to first principles—the listing of all property at its true value in money—under inducement of a fixed, low maximum tax rate. With the help of a Republican minority in the legislature a bill establishing a rate of ten mills, with an emergency increase to fifteen mills by a referendum vote, was passed.

It is known that the measure will, in all probability, bring about decreased revenues and thus it is necessary to meet this condition by a decrease in the expenditures. The governor felt that the success of the low tax rate was more important than a large appropriation for immediate road building.

The governor in this was, as we believe, right, as we have heretofore stated. There is every necessity for rigid economy of the state's funds. Our regret is that the governor did not go farther and more consistently into the conservation of the state's revenues. For instance, under the expectation that the $4,000,000 would be made immediately available for work, the legislature made provision in the same measures for enlarging the department of highways, increasing the powers and duties of the commissioner in charge, providing for a larger force of clerks and helpers, and largely increasing the salary and pay-roll account. But Harmon, the statesman, having vetoed in the interest of economy the bill providing for the work. Harmon, the politician and candidate approves the provisions for salary increases and new offices

We have a new superintendent of insurance, who held the state up for fifty per cent more in salary than his predecessors surely as able, more experienced than he—had ever been allowed Now we will have a new commissioner of highways not an expert, but a draft from a county surveyor's office, at a salary nearly double that of his predecessor, who organized the department and made its work efficient

We are glad to commend Harmon, the statesman, whenever possible, but Harmon, the politician, interferes so often, and always at the expense of the taxpayers, that the occasions are rare when we can do so whole heartedly

And, in connection with this late partial veto, we recall that while Ohio was under a territorial government, the governor had as now no veto power. His compensation was then derived partially from fees. The territorial legislature desired to wipe out the fee system and to that end passed two bills. The first increased the salary of the governor, the second provided that the fees should be paid into the treasury. The governor promptly approved the first bill and vetoed the second. As a result of this sharp practice, the constitution adopted by the new state the next year denied the governor the veto as did the one which followed it in 1851. It was in fact nearly 100 years before this power was again vested in a chief executive But the governor would gladly go back a century to find a precedent which would help him in his machine-building.

ADOPTING RIGHT PLAN TO BUILD AN INTERURBAN

It is pleasing to note a renewal of the movement to construct an interurban line between Mt. Gilead and Marion. The especially pleasing feature is that the movement is that of interested citizens, and no fake promoter, no Napoleon of finance, no confidence man is in the game. A good many interurban lines, a surprising many, have been projected and promoted, and gotten away with by cheeky adventurers, who had no stock in trade other than their nerve and their capacity to play on the generosity of public spirit and the credulity of their victims. In a large sense the public was indifferent to their methods, the main thing was to get the roads builded.

But the reawakened Marion and Mt. Gilead effort is to be made along simply honest lines. The capital is to be sought within the territory interested in or affected by the building of the road. Plain, common stock, representing a common interest, is to be sold at par, for cash, to the extent of half the cost of the line, and on this foundation it is expected to issue bonds for the other half of the cost. It is simple, it is honest. It is exactly the way an individual would do if he were building a road for himself, expecting to operate for profit. Nobody is expecting to make his profit in promotion. The road is to make the profits in operating, and the capital and bonds being limited to the actual investment in building, it is very reasonable to believe the earnings will provide a fair return on the money invested. It is the easy way. It is the right way. But it is a novelty. There aren't a half dozen cases like it in all the astonishing railway building of all the United States. Dr. Tucker, the modest but able Mt. Gilead capitalist, who is the chief inspiration in the undertaking, ought to have his place in the fame of Ohio, if he leads in this good example, and proves the ease of such an exceptional accomplishment.

Justice Harlan may not like Chief Justice White and the decisions he produces, but he is the sort of optimist much needed and too rare at Washington. He says that the nation is in no danger and that we are nearer the American ideal of government than ever before. There is a real text for the preachers, politicians and newspapers to preach from.

We read in the current dispatches that the young women of Findlay, under the influence of a recent revival, have banded themselves together with the purpose of abolishing card-playing at social functions. If this means the recrudescence of "post-office," "pillow" and "drop-the-handkerchief," we predict that Findlay will show a gain instead of a loss in growth in the next decade.

Wiping out a postal deficit the year before a presidential election is almost as mean a trick on the part of Postmaster Hitchcock as though he had spread large, sharp-pointed tacks in the paths of the political devil-wagons of the Democratic presidential aspirants.

Some of the newspapers which construe opposition to everything that is, to be "progressive," are jubilating over the abrogation of what has been called senatorial courtesy And yet we can find it in our heart to be a little sad about it. We have had little patience with the senate rules which permitted any leather-lunged-obstructionist to delay the transaction of public business, but we have liked the dignity, the decorum and calm deliberation which has generally marked the discussion and disposition of the weighty affairs of government. And we doubt whether the public welfare has been advanced by the intrusion of certain cocksure, aggressive and ill-mannered men, who seem to feel that they can not represent the so-called 'common people' without appearing defiantly boisterous and ill-bred

We hope the Chinese government will enforce its demand for a substantial indemnity and apology from the Mexicans for the horrible butchery of over 300 Chinamen. The mob which tortured these Celestials before slaying them did so in cowardice, because of their helplessness. No foreigners of any other race were molested, and the crime, which had no real bearing upon the civil war, when practically concluded, deserves the severest punishment.

Now a new medical prophet has arisen who preaches the doctrine of sour milk diet. There is an old query "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" And they generally do on dietary questions. It seems that man is wise who eats always with moderation the things he finds do not disagree with him, and does not attempt to follow the fads invented by others.

The Monitor, Puritan, built twenty years ago at a cost of nearly three and a half million dollars, has been condemned to be sold as junk, with a minimum price of $12,000 fixed for her purchase. This is an awful depreciation account but not greatly in excess of that of other vessels in the navy. Why do not the advocates of universal peace confine their efforts to eliminating by treaty all combats at sea and the building of vessels over a certain tonnage and armament? There would be both sense and saving in that proposition. It would stop invasions.

DISCUSSING THE UNION OF BAPTIST CHURCHES

A Meeting Held at the Trinity Baptist Church.

Following the prayer service at the State street Trinity Baptist church, Wednesday evening, a meeting was held at which business relating to the union of the Main and State street churches was taken up. It was decided to postpone definite action regarding the matter until the first Wednesday of September. The proposition is meeting with much favor and those who are directly interested say the churches will be united. It will be necessary, however, for some little time to intervene before the matter is settled and the churches are formally united.

It was also decided at the meeting to send Rev. J. P. Currin as the delegate to the World's Baptist congress, which will convene at Philadelphia next week. Rev. Mr. Currin will be absent from the city next Sunday and the Sunday following.

JOINED IN MARRIAGE AT HOME OF BRIDE

Miss Cratsenberg and Mr. C. H. Brooks United.

Mr Charles H. Brooks, a stenographer for the Prendergast company, was united in marriage in Columbus, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, to Miss Maud Cratsenberg, of that city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. F. Pryor at his home on Oakwood avenue, and was witnessed by the parents of the bride and a few intimate friends. Later in the evening, the young people came to this city, where they will reside

Mrs. Brooks is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Cratsenberg, of Markison avenue, Columbus, and is a most pleasing young woman. Mr. Brooks came to Marion about sixteen months ago from Columbus, and during his residence here has made many friends who will be pleased to learn of his marriage.

AN AUTO IS WRECKED BUT OCCUPANTS ESCAPE

Charles Hofstetter and J. D. Guthery in Accident.

AUTOMOBILE STRUCK BY CENTER STREET CAR

Reports as to the Cause Differ—Occupants of Auto Blame the Street Car Motorman and the Motorman Blames the Driver of Auto—Very Fortunate Ending of Accident.

An automobile, driven by Charles H. Hofstetter, who was accompanied by Joseph D. Guthery, was wrecked and its two occupants narrowly escaped serious injury as a result of being struck by a street car near the Hofstetter home, No. 610 east Center street, Wednesday night, shortly after 11:30 o'clock.

Accounts of how the accident occurred vary. Motorman W. Turner, who left the transfer on his last trip at 11:30 o'clock, claims that Hofstetter was driving east on the south side of the street, and that he attempted to cross the tracks when the car was within only a short distance of him. Turner declares he tried to stop, but was unable to do so soon enough. The automobile was smashed and Mr. Guthery and Mr. Hofstetter both escaped with a few bruises. The motorman's story is corroborated by the conductor, C. G. Coey.

Mr. Hofstetter says the motorman had plenty of time to stop his car. He says the street car was at Greenwood street when he attempted to cross the tracks to go into his garage. Something went wrong with his machine and it stopped "dead still on the tracks," according to both Mr. Hofstetter and Mr Guthery.

Mr. Hofstetter estimates the damage done to his automobile at $200.

"I didn't see the car at all," said Mr. Hofstetter Thursday. 'Mr Guthery saw it at Greenwood street and shouted to the motorman, who never even rung his bell. He was going to beat the band. He could have stopped if he had been attending to his business."

COMMON PLEAS COURT.

Judge W. E. Scofield excused the petit jurors until the September term of court, Thursday morning.

In the suit of M. B. Chase against Margaret Fox and others, Judge Scofield entered judgment for costs against the plaintiff Thursday. A jury recently returned a verdict in favor of the defendants. Chase sued to recover judgment for about $50 commission in the sale of real estate.

The divorce action of Ella Grace Pleasant against Glenn W. Pleasant was dismissed Thursday, a reconciliation having been effected.

David Washam, who was fined $200 and costs for alleged violation of the Rose local-option law, filed a petition-in-error in the common pleas court, Thursday, through Attorneys Eymon & Thompson. Washam's attorneys claim that their client was fined $150 and costs by Mayor Seiter and that Washam's brother settled the case after he had been in jail some time. They declare that Washam was then fined $200 and costs for the same offense for which he had already been fined.

It is upon this ground that a strong attempt will be made to have the mayor's court reversed. Washam is now at liberty on bond.

An amended petition has been filed in the suit of the Dr. Joseph Haas Remedy company against Rish. This is an action to recover judgment for a patent remedy for hog cholera.

Seventy-five dollars temporary alimony was allowed Cora Grace Winch by Judge Scofield, Thursday. She is suing her husband, Charles S. Winch, a farmer near Martel, for a divorce.

Clarence S. Noyes will not be punished for contempt of court for violation of a temporary injunction which restrained him from interfering with his wife, who is suing him for a divorce. Attorney Wilbur Jacoby, representing the wife, said that Noyes had made amends by dividing the personal property and he asked that he not be punished. Judge Scofield said that would be satisfactory to him if the plaintiff in the case was satisfied.

A motion, filed by the plaintiff, in the suit of F. M. Smith against Hoke W. Donithen, was overruled by Judge W. E. Scofield, Thursday. Attorney Fred W. Warner, who represented the plaintiff, asked that the court pass upon the motion

The blade entered between the floating ribs on the left side. The boy will recover.

HARRY SLOCUM GIVEN TERM IN WORKHOUSE

Must Pass About Eight Months in Dayton.

FELLOW IS BROUGHT HERE FROM CRESTLINE

Is Fined and Sentenced on Two Charges by Justice Charles H. Conley Thursday Morning—Slocum Is Turned Over to Marion Officers by the Crestline Authorities.

After pleading guilty to charges of cruelly driving a horse and to defrauding a livery keeper, Harry Slocum, twenty-four years old and unmarried, was given fines and sentences on the two charges that will keep him in the Dayton workhouse a period of eight months by Justice Charles H. Conley, Thursday.

On the charge of defrauding James Church, who runs a livery stable on Union street, out of a small livery bill, Slocum was fined $10 and costs and given thirty days in the workhouse For driving one of Mr. Church's horses almost to death, September 21, 1910, he was fined $100 and costs.

When asked what he had to say before passing sentence on the cruelty charge, Slocum declared that he guessed he had "a few drinks too many," and didn't know what he was doing. Slocum's parents live at Geneva. Shortly after committing the offense of cruelty here, he left and was next heard of a week ago at Crestline, where he had been arrested for defrauding a liverykeeper. Wednesday, Justice Conley received word from the Crestline authorities and Constable James Ullom went after him, returning late Wednesday afternoon.

The Building Committee Makes a Report.

FIGURES SECURED OF LOCAL CONTRACTORS

Matter of Improving the Y. M. C. A. Building Is Turned Over to the Building Committee—About $6,000 Is To Be Used in Making the Changes—Increase in Membership.

Nearly all the members were present at a regular monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. trustees, Wednesday evening, and considerable business of importance was transacted. The building committee reported that some figures had been secured from local contractors showing the cost of improvements anticipated by the association. The figures were carefully gone over and the matter of improving was turned over to the building committee, which is composed of C. S. Lippincott, E. K. Uhler, J. F. Lust, W. T. Jones and C. D. It is the intention of the building committee to improve to the amount of money available, and not go in debt. The amount raised by pledges in the recent campaign fund was in the neighborhood of $25,000. After paying the total indebtedness of the association and providing for the current expenses for two years, there is left about $6,000 for improvements. A resolution was adopted by the board asking the Mirror Publishing company to vacate the first floor of the building within sixty days. The first floor will then be fitted for Y. M. C. A. purposes. The general offices, lobby, bowling alleys and billiard and pool parlor will be located on the first floor and will make a convenient entrance to the swimming pool and bath rooms. The monthly report of the secretary showed a nice increase in membership, the membership at the close of last month being 551.

AN OHIO NORTHERN UNIVERSITY MEETING

H. L. Frank Retires from Position as Dean.

AGRICULTURE WILL BE TAUGHT HEREAFTER

Marion Men Are Placed on a Committee To Secure an Endowment Fund of $200,000—The University Has a Very Successful Year and Clears Big Sum of Money.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Ohio Northern university, at Ada, Wednesday, the resignation of H. L. Frank, formerly of Marion, was accepted and Charles McCracken was elected dean of the normal department in his stead. As has been previously announced, Mr. Frank has purchased a farm in Florida and will move to that state. His successor is a graduate of the university at Ada and this year he will graduate at Harvard.

The committee on instruction, of which John H. Clark, of Marion is chairman, authorized President Albert Edwin Smith to employ a professor of agriculture. This course of study will be taught at the Ada school for the first time. Dr. David H. Bailey, of this city, is a member of the committe on instruction.

A committee was appointed by the trustees to devise ways and means for raising an endowment fund of $200,000. Frederick E. Guthery and Dr. Bailey, of this city, were appointed members of this committee. The other members are Judge Wannamaker, of Akron; chairman, W. W. Edwards, of Leipsic, and A. F. Bowman, of St. Marys.

President Smith reported that $52,000 had been collected in tuitions and that the past year was the most prosperous in the university's history. Out of the tuitions received, Dr. Smith stated that all expenses had been paid and that $7,000 in addition had been applied on indebtedness.

At one time during the year as high as 1,000 students were enrolled.

BOSTON NEWSBOYS HAVE OWN PAPER

Rules of Their Guild—Hundreds Attend Night School.

The Boston Newsboys' club has a paper of its own called the Hustler, in a recent number of which some of the points of the business are explained. Beginners often sell for other boys on a commission basis, thus securing the assistance of the experienced boys while serving their own apprenticeship.

"These 'strikers,' as they are called, keep one cent for every four collected. Few of them earn more than twenty-five cents a day, while many of them earn less than ten.

"The older boy, working for himself and sometimes employing others, builds up a patronage at some location. This place becomes his 'corner,' which by newsboy tradition he occupies without interference. Thus if a boy has sold papers on a certain corner for several years no other newsboy would think of competing with him there.

"The good will thus gained is a valuable asset and is either handed down to a younger brother or otherwise disposed of to good advantage. Two dollars per day is a conservative estimate of what many of the older newsboys earn. A few make twice that amount.

"Intimately allied to the newsboy is the 'Canada Point.' 'Canada Points' are ex-newsboys employed by certain papers for a fixed salary to distribute by wholesale. Formerly boys were obliged to go to the several offices for papers; now they may be obtained at any of the twenty points throughout the city.

"Since the busiest time of the day for the newsboy is from 4 to 6 in the afternoon, many earn enough during these hours to enable them to attend school. In the English high school alone, there are over 300 newsboys; all the other high schools of the city and even the colleges in the vicinity have their quota of newsboys."—New York Sun.

RICHWOOD DRIVING CLUB RACES PLANNED

Some Good Purses Are To Be Given for the Races.

Big preparations are being made by the Richwood Driving club for the harness races to be held at the Richwood fairground, Tuesday, July 4

All the money guaranteed is now in bank and ready to be paid to the winner as soon as the races are over. Secretary Street declares the meet will surpass anything ever before held in Richwood, and will be one of the greatest racing events in this section this season.

Following are the events and purses:

2:23 trot, purse, $240; 2:17 pace, $240; 2:35 trot, purse, $240; 2:25 pace, purse, $240.

All entries will be closed Tuesday, June 27.

The money will be divided—$120 first, $60 to second, $30 to fourth.

An idea which is taking every one's fancy by storm is the summer muff. It may be made in anything pretty and light.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Marion Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Marion citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Marion by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Joseph Voll, merchant tailor, 400 N. State street, Marion, Ohio, says: "Since I told of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills in October, 1899, other members of my family have taken this remedy and have been greatly benefited. I suffered from pain in my loins and my back became so sensitive that to straighten after stooping was a difficult operation. There was also a dull heavy pain in the back of my head and my kidneys caused me a great deal of annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Schmidt & Co.'s Drug Store, brought me prompt relief and after continuing their use a short time, I was cured. I am in a position to vouch for the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills and I recommend them highly to anyone troubled by disordered kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MRS. C. H. VANDERSALL ASSISTS HER HUSBAND

Former Marion Resident in Religious Work.

Mrs. C. H. Vandersall, wife of Rev. C. H. Vandersall, a former pastor of the Calvary Evangelical church, is assisting her husband materially in his work at Lindsey and is heard with interest in evangelistic work. She is not only occupying the pulpit at times and devoting herself to religious work, but is training her three little children with a view to their becoming missionaries. A special from Lindsey to the Toledo Blade of recent issue says in part.

Mrs. C. H. Vandersall, wife of the pastor of Trinity Evangelical church here, is a help-meet to her husband in an unusual way. She takes his place in the pulpit occasionally and preaches sermons that are much enjoyed by members of the congregation and others who make up the audience. And her remarks constitute a real sermon. She selects a text, studies it and develops it.

Mrs. Vandersall is cultured and a pleasing conversationalist, and her winsome manners do not desert her in the pulpit. She is much of a "home body" and not at all like the usual conception of a woman preacher. These traits add strength and conviction to her pulpit utterances and aid in making her sermons a source of spiritual food for her auditors.

DR. A. C. HOLLAND IS THE NEW REGISTRAR

Is To Succeed Dr. F. L. Watkins in State Job.

As predicted in the Star several weeks ago, Dr. A. C. Holland will succeed Dr. F. L. Watkins. The Ohio State Journal of June 9, says:

A. C. Holland, Democrat, of Marion, will succeed Dr. F. L. Watkins, Republican, as registrar of the state bureau of vital statistics. Dr. Watkins has resigned, to take effect July 15.

Interference in the affairs of the state board of health and the state bureau of vital statisics was charged against Governor Harmon at a meeting of the house of delegates of the State Medical association recently held in Cleveland. The Lancet-Clinic, a medical publication having its home in Cincinnatti, says the executive was freely accused of using the departments for political spoils purposes.

WILLIAM S. OBORN TALKS OF THE PIONEER YEARS

An Interesting Old Gentleman Visits Star Office.

Walks a Distance of 200 Miles to West Virginia and Return and Suffers No Hardship in Making the Journey—Health Good.

William S. Oborn, one of the pioneer residents of this county, paid the Star office a visit, last Saturday, and related many interesting incidents in connection with his earlier life. Mr. Oborn, who will celebrate his eightieth birthday, July 30, is enjoying very good health for one of his advanced years. Much of this he attributes to his temperate habits, he never having been drunk in his life and never having smoked or chewed.

A year ago this spring, Mr. Oborn walked from this city to West Virginia and back, covering the distance of 200 miles in five weeks. On this trip he visited the house near Zanesville in which his mother was born 116 years ago. He was not sick an hour during the entire trip.

The aged man resided on the Mud pike in Richland towship until four years ago, when he came to Marion to live with his daughter, Mrs. W. S Myers, of Blaine avenue. His wife died sixteen months ago.

When Mr. Oborn's father, Daniel Oborn, came to Marion in 1820 salt was selling at $20 a barrel and coffee at seventy-five cents a pound. He hauled wheat sixty-two miles to Portland, now Sandusky, and after he had paid twenty cents a bushel for hauling, only had left fifteen cents a bushel for his grain.

SURPRISE GIVEN AT PRETTYMAN HOME

Company of Young People Enjoy an Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Prettyman were given a pleasant surprise at their home about six miles southwest of Agosta, Friday evening, by a number of the Sunday-school young people of Agosta. The time was spent socially and a delightful time was enjoyed. Those present were:

Olive; Bernice Tong and Amanda Wood, of Wild Cat, and Wilson Black, of Marion.

The trouser skirt—the jupe-culotte—may not become popular, but it is so modified and refined that it will be worn. The harem skirt is impossible. The two are entirely different; the public did not have this difference fixed in their minds when the fashion was first cabled to this country.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO DEPARTED BROTHERS

Pythians Hold Annual Memorial Services Sunday.

PROGRAM OBSERVED IN MARION LODGE HALL

Rev. J. P. Currin Delivers a Fine Oration and Is Heard with Interest. Special Music Is Given—A List of the Deceased Brothers of Two Local Pythian Lodges.

Nearly 200 members of Marion Lodge, No. 402, and Canby Lodge, No. 51, Knights of Pythias, attended the annual memorial exercises of the two lodges held in the hall of Marion lodge in the Cummin Memorial block, Sunday afternoon.

The hall was beautifully decorated with flowers and Pythian emblems. Following the opening overture by the Knights of Pythias orchestra, directed by L. B. McNeal, Rev. J. P. Currin, pastor of the State Street Trinity Baptist church, invoked the divine blessing. After another selection by the orchestra, W. N. Harder read the list of "Our Departed Brothers," as follows:

The Departed.

Marion Lodge, No. 402—William Criswell, William Wiant, F. S. Adams, S. T. Beerbower, Howard Bolander, U. K. Guthery, Willis Wolford, W. W. Essex, Fank Levy, William B. Foye, Eugene Reber, I. J. Bane, Edward Evans, F. N. Everett, John M. Pfann, Henry True, D. S. Mattox, C. W. King, W. B. Everett.

Canby, No. 51—C. S. Miller, J. E. Davids, W. Coleman, John Uhl, John Diebold, Jonas Rupp, W. L. Hood, O. W. Weeks, Thomas Evans, Neal Anderson, George W. Davidson, Henry C. Gillet, Daniel Straw, O. G. Johnson, W. C. Rapp, O. H. Vorhees, George Foreman, A. L. Clark, William Cunningham, S. J. Snyder, John Keller, John Evans, George Key, John Fisher, Rudolph Findling, John Jones, William Moore, John G. Mader, Edward Haller, A. H. Clay, C. A. Hoskins, Boston G. A Beautiful Solo.

When the reading of the roster was completed, Miss Carmen Blow very beautifully rendered, "Oh, Dry Those Eyes."

Rev. Mr. Currin delivered the memorial address, his subject being "A Royal Substitute." Eloquently he told the story of Christ and gradually led up to the famous old story of Damon and Pythias. The two old stories of sacrifice were interwoven in an address that was splendid. Both were old and familiar, but the speaker's manner of telling them was new and pleased greatly.

Another selection by the orchestra and the program was closed by the singing of the closing ode and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Currin.

The Pythians then repaired to Marion cemetery, where the graves of the deceased brothers of the order were decorated with flowers. At the memorial services, Homer E. Johnson acted as chancellor commander; J. W. Hungate as vice chancellor, and J. W. Llewellyn as prelate.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT ENDS FORTUNATELY

A Buggy Is Smashed, but No One Is Injured.

A spectacular runaway occurred, Saturday night about 9:30 o'clock, when one of the horses of the Central Delivery company dashed west through the alley from the barn, located near the old opera-house ruins and crashed into a horse and buggy belonging to Mack C. Haley, a farmer, near the grocery of Harry S. Scribner, on south Main street. The runaway horse leaped into the buggy, upsetting it and smashing the vehicle practically to pieces. Mr. Haley's horse was also badly wounded as a result of the collision.

The horse came running madly out of the alley with the delivery wagon swaying first to one side and then to the other. Nothing held it to the horse save the holdback straps. Main street was crowded with men, women and children. When the frenzied animal crashed into the Haley rig there was a general stampede of people, and for a time it was thought that several pedestrians had been badly hurt.

After the mixup and a number of men had captured the runaway horse, a man ran into the middle of the street and shouted:

"Is there anybody hurt?" He was greatly excited, and when he received no answer he again shouted the same question. But nobody was hurt.

The delivery horse was frightened while it was being unhitched. All of the harness had been unfastened except the holdback straps when the animal ran away.

ALANSON LYON DIES NORTH OF CALEDONIA

Death Is the Result of Attack of Hemorrhages.

Caledonia, O., June 12. [Special.]—Alanson Lyon died at his home two miles north of here, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, after a very brief illness. In the morning, Mr. Lyon was not feeling well and suffered hemorrhages. In the afternoon, his condition became very critical and his death soon resulted. A postmortem examination was held by Drs. H. FELLOWS BELIEVED IMPLICATED HERE

Two Thieves Taken into Custody in Delaware.

It is believed that John Jackson and a fellow giving his name as Hoffman who were arrested in Delaware last week are implicated in the recent burglaries committed in this city. The fact that the men carried many old coins and a large number of pennies leads to the belief that they had a part in the burglary at the E. S. DeWees home on Thompson street, where several valuable old coins were taken. Several pennies were also stolen at the Rolla M. Shute home. The policy of the men in not carrying revolvers also adds a clue in the fact that a revolver was left lying on a chair at the DeWees home.

Jackson said to other prisoners in the Delaware jail, last Friday evening, that if they had only been left alone a little while longer he and his pal would have had all the money in Delaware.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

Dead of Two Lodges Remembered by Brothers.

SOME NEW THOUGHTS ON GOOD SAMARITAN

Travelers Between the Two Great Starting and Stopping Places in Life Often Have the Experience of the Traveler Between Jerusalem and Jerico—Pleasing Address.

Kosciusko Lodge, No. 58, and Wayside Lodge, No. 864, I. O. O. F., held memorial services at the Trinity Baptist church on north State street, Sunday morning. The members attended in a body and a big congregation was in attendance.

After the opening exercises and the opening ode, the reading of the roster of the dead of Kosciusko lodge and the transient members was read by W. C. Luellen. F. C. Bacon read the roster of Wayside oldge.

Rev. J. P. Currin gave the address for the occasion and he was heard with much interest. He brought new thoughts on the story of the good Samaritan who gave help to the man fallen by the wayside between Jerusalem and Jericho.

The Fallen Traveler.

"Jerusalem was the great starting place," the minister said. "Jericho was the great stopping place. Between these two stations the traveler was making his way when difficulty overcame him and he fell by the wayside. In our lives we are going between stations and just as we are going we are surprised and swept down. Often with us our passions will overcome the very best that there is in us and we fall. They steal in upon us unawares and when we think we have command of ourselves or that we are strong, we fall.

"If we, between these stations of life, are surprised by stealth, we feel that we are bereft of support. On the roadside, there passed by the representatives of the great churches and the fallen man surely expected succor and help, but in vain. It is so today as it was then."

An Illustration.

Rev. Mr. Currin told of reading in a Bellefontaine paper where an aged man was about to be sent to the infirmary or the poorhouse in the rougher term. It was found that a son had a farm and when questioned regarding the matter, the son said:

"I pay taxes for the support of the poor of Logan county."

The mission of the church, today, is to help those who are stricken and carry them to help. In his remarks, the minister beautifully told of the coming of the good Samaritan and how the fallen man was given aid. Radiating from this man was love and charity. Service to mankind should be our greater aim.

Not only should there be service, but a sacrifice for the betterment of mankind, the minister explained in closing.

A committee visited the Marion cemetery and decorated the graves of the dead during the day.

PROSPECTS FOR ROAD GROWING BRIGHTER

A Meeting Held at Upper Sandusky Friday Evening.

The meeting in the interest of the proposed Marion, Upper Sandusky & Toledo electric railway was held at Upper Sandusky, last Friday evening, as a result of which the prospects for the road are brighter than at any time since the project was first proposed. The meeting gave promise of actual accomplishment and every effort will be made from this time on to further the project.

Frank M. Ohl, of Toledo, the promoter of the road was present at the meeting and gave a brief talk. He said action must be taken as soon as possible. He said:

"June 30 the new utilities law will go into effect and the present railroad commission will be the utilities commission. After that date it will be almost impossible to carry out new projects as heretofore. He then explained that under the new law, the commission will have absolute control of the amount and kind of securities issued."

It is planned to raise $75,000 in this city and the work will be begun as soon as is practicable.

TEN LOST TRIBES.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for June 18 Is, "The Downfall of Samaria." II Kings, 17-1:18.

One of the fascinating subjects in connection with Old Testament history, and one which many persons have made a hobby, is that of the fate of the ten northern tribes of Israel, who were carried into captivity by Assyria, and thenceforth disappear from the Bible record. The mystery has been the theme of many books, and of endless discussion. Some persons have intense convictions upon it, and this present article will doubtless call out hostile rejoinders. One company of persons hold that the Chinese are the lost Ten Tribes, while others say that the North American Indians are the descendants of the ancient Hebrew captives; a still larger body of advocates claim that the Anglo-Saxon race can boast this scriptural origin. There are theories galore, for the subject is an alluring one. Today the whole Sunday-school world will study the tragic episode that gives rise to all the speculations, the downfall of Samaria, the capital of the northern kingdom of Israel, and the carrying into captivity of the people by the Assyrians. The awful end, many times foretold, had come at last.

The romancers have long had their way with this subject. No speculation has been too wild to have adherents. A little less imaginativeness, and a little more attention to the records of history and geography in the case, clears up the whole subject, removing it out of the realm of unreality, but detracting not one whit from its interest. The very chapter from which this lesson is taken plainly says, "So Israel was carried away out of their own land to Assyria, unto this day." In other words, the Ten Tribes were never lost; they were taken to Assyria, where they remain to this day. They ceased to have a national existence, but their descendants are still, despite the marvelous changes which history has brought to this region, within the confines of the territory where they were placed by Sargon II.

A "Find" Along the Tigris.

What is written briefly in the Old Testament upon this subject is fully corroborated by what is written at length in the latest books of travel. During my own travels in Mesopotamia, a few weeks ago, I was not a little surprised—having paid more attention to ingenious theories upon the fate of the "lost" Ten Tribes than I had to the simple record—to learn that the Jews are still scattered in communities over the region along the Tigris river that is known as Assyria. It is not they who have been lost, but we. This ancient center of civilization has passed almost wholly out of the common knowledge of mankind. Assyria is not so well known as China. There are 1,000 Europeans and Americans who travel on the Yangtze to every one that travels on the Tigris or Euphrates. Mesopotamia is not so well known as Uganda. So through all these centuries, in strange fulfillment of the Biblical record, these Jews have persisted in the place of their captivity, despite almost constant poverty and oppression, while the kingdoms of Assyria and Babylon and Persia and Greece and Rome and the Caliphate have thriven and waned and disappeared before their eyes. The persistence of the Jew is uncanny, though scriptural.

In Bagdad, where there are from sixty to 80,000 Jews, and several miserable synagogues, I had a conference with the chief rabbi and his associates upon this subject of the "lost" tribes, and the existing Jews in Mesopotamia. They say that their people have always been here since the captivity, and that now there is no line of division between the captives from the northern and those from the southern kingdoms. The entire twelve tribes are represented in Bagdad, as well as up and down the valley. There are also many Jews in Persia, the ancient land of the Medes, whither Sargon sent them. While they have been desperately poor and oppressed, better days seem to be coming, and with the opening of the region to settlement, they should find their opportunity. The revived life and consciousness of the Jewsish nation will not pass them by.

A Great Journey.

The average newspaper reader, who sees incomprehensible dispatches concerning the new Bagdad railway, never thinks that there is any connection between this and the story of the exile of Israel. Yet the present discussion is quite opportune for the Bible teacher who would make the Old Testament story vivid and real. The route of the Bagdad railway, from Aleppo southward, is, broadly speaking, the route of the great and miserable journey made by the Jewish captives. That this forced emigration was as definite and real as the daily runs of the limited trains between New York and Chicago, is an important point for the average boy and girl to fix in mind permanently. Shalmaneser IV and Sargon II are perfectly historical persons, and I myself have read the latter's boastful writings on the bricks of his now buried capital, which he thought was to endure forever. The person who would go further into the absorbing archaeological aspect of this story, and learn the marvelous historical confirmations of the Old Testament narrative, would better read Professor Albert T. Clay's "Light on the Old Testament from Babel," published by the Sunday-School Times company. I read it while floating down the Tigris river, and found it illuminating.

To remove the haze and obscurity that envelopes Assyria for the average person, it would be well to take a map and trace the probable route of the captives, acquiring on the way some knowledge of geography that will be useful in the interpretation of the day's news. Probably the Jordan was crossed somewhere near the Lake of Galilee—and how different this crossing from the one which their fathers had made, under Joshua, as the captives' consciences doubtless reminded them now and then, the mountains passed, they slowly journeyed up the valley through which now runs the Damascus-Homs railway. Through these smiling valleys, once their own inheritance, but now ravaged by invaders, they toiled afoot until they reached the ancient city of Aleppo, even then, as now, associated with the name of Abraham.

Indeed, these exiles were practically traversing, in an opposite direction, the journey which their great ancestor has made, to secure the inheritance which they had flung away. The way had many goads for their consciences. At Aleppo now becoming, because of railway construction, the Chicago of Asia Minor, the Israelites and their captors turned due East, across the stony uplands of Mesopotamia. That is a rough road to travel to this day, on horseback or in stout-springed arabas to these foot pilgrims, with their age and ill and little children it must have been torturing. But they were only prisoners, and entitled to scant consideration, getting such remnants of poor food as the cruel soldiers chose to give them. Soon they came in sight of the mountains of Kurdistan, where the soldiers redoubled their watchfulness, lest there be an attack from these fearless mountaineers, the Carduchi, as they were called. Wells were infrequent and deep, and the company suffered from lack of water. All the land was so different from the ancient Hittite capital of Carchemish, still a ruin for the present-day traveller's observation. At the crossing, a slow, noisy process, as it is today, they were in fear of attack from the predatory Bedouin, then, as now, the enemy of all organized society. In another week, if the roads were not too muddy, or the snow on the ground, they were well past Harran, where Abraham had dwelt, and where Isaac had got his wife—the very well of Rebecca being pointed out by the fathers—and in sight of the Tigris river. Perhaps here the host made a halt beneath the big cliffs of the fortified city that is today called Diarbekir. It may be that the invalided and wounded soldiers, and the infirm among the Israelites, were here put aboard the goatskin rafts which were then, as they are now, the common means of conveyance down the Asshur or Ninevah, while the stronger ones marched down the river bank, over country that impressed them more by its difficulties than by its beauties. So at last they came to their undesired haven, and the miserable and heartsick Jews were scattered in slavery throughout Assyria, some being sent as far east as Media, the present Persia. And there they have remained since, a monument to the folly of a people that forsake the long-suffering Jehovah.

Nation That Followed the Fashion.

Why this awful calamity, this wiping out of a nation's existence? The answer is more clearly written for us in the case of Israel of old than it is in the modern instances of Korea, Poland and Finland, blotted out before the eyes of the present generation. The northern kingdom of Israel had sinned away its day of grace. The patient and forbearing Jehovah, after warnings and entreaties, had been flouted too far. If the universe is not to be a realm of anarchy, the Lord must be just as well as merciful. There will always be a place for the policeman in society. Law must have means of vindicating itself. A God who was only merciful, and not just, would be only the plaything of mortals. God is always love, but the rod is sometimes a better expression of love than is a sweetmeat. The Israelites had passed the stage of reform; therefore their national existence was extinguished as a candle is snuffed out.

With poetic justice, the end came through one of the powerful nations that the foolish Jews had tried to emulate. The clearly recorded cause for the downfall of the kingdom of Israel was that it preferred to follow the fashion of the nations, rather than the will of Jehovah, who had called the children of Israel to be a peculiar people. They wanted them to be different from other people. They could not perceive, any more than can thousands of equally foolish persons today, that it is better to live one's own life, and to work out one's own individuality, than to conform to the conventional standards. There are many women who would be beloved and useful homekeepers if they would stand true to their lot in life, who have made themselves into ridiculous imitations of "society" women. The first law of peace and success for individuals and for nations, is to be loyal to one's own personality. There is no more absurd or despicable spectacle within the seven seas than the American who is an imitation Englishman. And no persons are farther from perceiving the national destiny of the United States of America than those young gentlemen in diplomatic service who are trying their utmost to have the nation conform to certain continental usages and standards. Let us keep true to our own type, and obedient to our heavenly vision. Failure to do so wrecked Israel, and many another nation since.

The most modern of offenses was ancient Israel's ruin. It went mad after the prevailing fashions. It would rather be popular than right.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO A DEPARTED SISTER

Resolutions on the Death of Late Mrs. Anna McNeal.

The Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the First Presbyterian church have adopted the following resolutions:

In view of the loss we have sustained by the death of our friend and associate, Mrs. Anna McNeal, and of the still greater loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to her; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to her memory to say that in regretting her removal from our midst we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard. She was for many years a member of our missionary societies and was one of the first officers and a charter member of the Foreign society, and was ever ready to raise her voice in song.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased and commend them for consolation to Him Who orders all things for the best.

Resolved, That this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the family and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of the society and that a copy be sent to the city papers.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THATCHER WILL CASE

Mutilated Will Is Filed in the Probate Court.

DR. J. W. THATCHER TEARS UP DOCUMENT

Son Who Is in Possession of the Scraps Is Cited To Bring Them into Probate Court—The Will May Be Admitted to Probate—The Torn Bits Are Pasted Together.

A new angle to the now locally-celebrated Thatcher will case has developed. The mutilated will of the late Dr. John W. Thatcher, who died in this city several years ago, has been recovered and will be filed for probate, Thursday morning. Probate Judge W. S. Spencer pasted the torn bits of the will together.

A short time before he died, Dr. Thatcher, in a fit of rage, tore into shreds the will in which he left the homestead property in Morrow county to two sisters, a farm in Morrow county and his personal property to his only son, Ned E. Thatcher, of Fort Worth, Texas, and a house and lot in Marion to Mrs. Mary Monahan, who, with her husband, kept him during his declining years.

Mrs. Monahan obtained from Attorney Patrick Monahan, who drew the original will, a carbon copy of it. This she turned over to the son, who later deeded to her the house and lot which his father had willed her. Then Frances Crosby, of Mt. Gilead, a sister of Dr. Thatcher, filed for probate a copy of the last will and testament written from memory by Attorney Monahan. It was admitted to probate and Ned Thatcher filed a petition in the common pleas court to set it aside on the ground that it was not the last will and testament of his father. At the trial he produced the carbon copy of the original will obtained from Mrs. Monahan, and Judge W. E. Scofield directed a verdict setting the will aside. It also developed at the trial that the son also held the torn scraps of the original will, and these he has just brought into probate court after having been cited to do so. Without a will the son would inherit the entire estate.

Judge Spencer says that application will be made to admit the will to probate, Saturday.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Miss Laura M. Zeig and Harley S. LeLong, both of Green Camp, and Miss Mae Pearl Powell, of this city, and Claude W. Wrenn, of Ashland.

OBITUARY.

McMillan—Annie L. Collins was born, January 1, 1874, at Lima. Early in life she moved to Marseilles, and later to DeCliff. She returned to Lima, where she married Dallas D. McMillan, December 25, 1890. She resided with her husband near DeCliff until December 9, 1905, when they, with their family, consisting of two children, moved to Pasadena, residing at No. 1175 north Marengo avenue. Mrs. McMillan died of heart trouble, at her home, at 4:45 o'clock, the afternoon of May 23. She leaves to mourn their loss, one son, Newton R. McMillan, and one daughter, Edna May McMillan, who were with her at the hour of her departure; also two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Mayo and Mrs. C. W. Welsh, both of Ohio, and two brothers, Charles and Edward Collins, of Virginia. Mrs. McMillan was a woman of beautiful character, gentle and retiring in disposition. She was held in very high esteem by her acquaintances. She was a devoted wife and mother, and it is probable that her end was hastened by her devotion to her late husband during his long illness, which ended fatally just seven weeks and forty-five minutes before her demise. She was confined to her bed for a little over three weeks. Her illness was borne with beautiful Christian patience and her death was triumphant. She had been for many years an honored member of the Methodist Episcopal church. C. C. McMillan, of Erie, Kansas, brother of the late Dallas D. McMillan, was with the family during their affliction and with commendable unselfishness rendered most valuable service. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. John Nicholson, pastor of the North Methodist Episcopal church. The Sunday-school classmates of Miss Edna McMillan sang two pieces, "Nearer, My God to Thee" and "Just as I Am," and Miss Mabel Collins sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." The body was laid to rest beside that of her husband in Mountain View cemetery, Pasadena.

Madero's Followers Are Losing Patience

THEY BELIEVE IN THE SPOILS THEORY

They Desire To Be Put on the Payroll.

Soldiers Receive Pay and Bounties, but Protest Because Promised Farms Are Not Forthcoming. They Must Continue To Live on Promises for Some Time—Legislature Will Take Up Matter Soon.

El Paso, Tex., June 12.—Having won a complete victory for Francisco I. Madero, the insurrectos are now clamoring for the spoils that are considered the property of the victors.

Protests of a most vigorous nature are being made all over Mexico by the insurrectos where former federal employes are still held on the payrolls. There was a tremendous mass meeting at the foot of the Juarez monument in Juarez for the purpose of registering a vigorous protest at the employment of former federals in the customs house, postoffice and other positions in Juarez.

The officials in charge of Juarez, from General Blanco down, declare that it would be impossible to conduct the business with new men, and that for the time it is necessary to keep the federals on the payrolls, but promise that as soon as new men can be broken in for the work the changes will be made.

Return Home in Bad Humor.

Many of the insurrectos are going to their homes very much dissatisfied because they did not immediately get title to a farm, as had been promised. The insurrecto officials say the homesteads will be given the soldiers as soon as the government can make the arrangements, but the insurrectos want them now.

News from Chihuahua is that the situation is still strained and that the insurrectos are likely to attack the city at any time if the federals are not removed at once. Governor Abrom Gonzales has wired Madero at Mexico City, asking that the federals be ordered to leave so that the insurrecto army can come into barracks while it is being mustered out. Very few troops have been mustered out anywhere in Mexico. Some are being discharged at Torreon, but elsewhere they are held under arms. At Torreon they are being sent home as fast as possible, each man receiving his horse and a dollar a day for each day he was in service and a bonus of from $15 to $40, according to the number of fights participated in.

The entire legislature of the state of Jalisco has resigned. The people in a mass meeting declared for the resignations on the ground that the members had not been legally elected.

Over 700 insurrectos are camped on the outskirts of Guadalajara, the state capital, demanding the surrender of the garrison. The conditions are similar to those in Chihuahua.

Warns Against Uprising.

Monterey, Mexico, June 12.—A dispatch from Puebla says: "Felipe N. Chacon, general of the Maderist forces, issued a circular in which he calls the attention of the other revolutionary chiefs of this section to the need of being alert, since he had heard that Guillermo Castillo y Tapia, one of the chiefs, is trying to cause an uprising of the troops in this state and the state of Tlaxcala. General Chacon states that Castillo is trying to make his troops rise in insubordination."

GANG LEADER SHOT DOWN BY OFFICERS

Death Follows Raid on a Cleveland Park.

Cleveland, O., June 12.—Several hours after being shot by a special policeman at Glenns Springs, Stanley Park, 19, died at a local hospital. After an investigation of the case by Marshal A. Eddel of Newburg Heights, Charles Brown was relieved of all blame for the affair, the marshal finding that Brown shot in self-defense. According to the investigation the gang that started the trouble went to the park to create a disturbance, and during the excitement to rob the concessions. The gang first made an attack on the ticket sellers' booth and wrecked it, but was foiled in its attempt to get at the money by a boy who fled with the cash box and turned it over to the management.

When Brown attempted to restore order the ringleaders of the mob knocked him down took his club from him and were beating him when he drew his revolver and fired. During the riot that followed the remaining members of the mob broke into the management's office in the dancing pavilion and stole about $300.

TRYING TO SAVE NIAGARA FALLS

Senator Burton Has Bill That Will Come Up Wednesday.

Washington, June 12.—With $40,000,000 of capital fighting to secure unlimited right to divert Niagara Falls for power purposes and defeat a bill by Senator Burton, Republican, of Ohio, to continue the present restrictions which expire June 29, a big fight is in progress here.

Richard B. Watrous, today declared:

"It is up to the American people to save the scenic grandeur of Niagara Falls. Unless a favorable action is taken Wednesday, by the senate committee on foreign relations and the joint resolution by Senator Burton passed, Niagara's beauty may be destroyed. The Burton resolution proposes to continue the terms of his original resolution limiting the amount of water that may be diverted. Action must be taken to make impossible the onslaught by power companies that will otherwise be made on the falls after June 29, when the limitations in the old Burton law expire.

"I earnestly request that Americans desirous of having Niagara Falls left inviolate from commercial greed, should telegraph their congressmen and senators urging immediate action on the Burton resolution."

WE ARE LIVING AT A TERRIFIC PACE

A New York Pastor Talks of Life in America.

New York, June 12.—In order to attend the coronation of King George, Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett, the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church's imported pastor, sailed today on the Adriatic for his home. He was enthusiastic in his praise of New York.

"New York is in the forefront of civilization," Jowett said, "and as spiritual in proportion as any other city. I have found much virtue here but it doesn't advertise itself as does vice.

"We are living at a terrific pace. In New York everything is done on the run. Those who run fastest in the mad race generally fall, and the greater the pace the more disastrous the fall. I am pleased with my work so far."

Jowett explained that his personal invitation to a seat at the coronation came because of the king's desire to show a friendliness to the non-Episcopal churches.

GOVERNOR GRAY WINS THE DERBY

Latonia Derby Run in Presence of a Record Crowd.

Cincinnati, O., June 12.—Cheered by 15,000 people, the largest crowd that has ever packed the stand and lawn at Latonia race track, Governor Gray, the favorite, won the twenty-ninth running of the historic Latonia Derby, and in so doing not only clipped two full seconds from the track record for one mile and a half, but came within three-twentieths of a second of equaling the American record for the distance.

Despite the fact that the victory was an easy one and far from exciting, the winner passed the wire amidst tremendous applause. Star Charter was second, four lengths behind Governor Gray, while Messenger Boy, "the dark horse of the event," rewarded his backers by securing third money, two lengths behind Star Charter. The time was 2:30 2-5.

BANKER CLEWS IS VERY OPTIMISTIC

Tells Lima People That Good Times Are Coming.

Lima, O., June 12.—Henry Clews, sage of American financiers, stopping over here from his address to Ada graduates, declared himself as optimistic on the business outlook. He believes that instead of a panic as the result of government probes and supreme court decisions that the country is just entering a new era of prosperity on a safe and sane basis and that there is no occasion for alarm in commercial, financial or manufacturing circles. He thinks the uplift will come with the passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill and final adjournment of congress.

THE AUXILIARY YAWL, SEA BIRD.

Thurber and Mr. Theodore R. Goodwin, on the sheets. Quite a flotilla accompanied the daring voyagers down the bay. The Sea Bird has been thoroughly equipped for the trip during the last month, with supplies enough to last three months, though it is hoped that she may reach her destination in forty days. Her overall length is twenty-five feet six inches, extreme width, eight feet four inches; extreme draught, three feet eight inches; area of working sails, 400 square feet, and area of square sail, 120 square feet.

MAYA INDIANS LOOT RANCHES

Conditions in Yucatan Considered Serious.

ALL SPANIARDS PUT TO DEATH

New Rebellion Breaks Out in Merida.

People of the State of Tabasco Are Closely Allied with Those in Yucatan and Are Also in Revolt with Town Governments—They Refuse To Accept Governor Named by Madero—Wide-Open City.

Mexico City, June 12.—Telegrams from Yucatan reaching here Sunday report the condition of affairs there as being worse than in northern Mexico. The Maya Indians are banded under the command of members of the national guard which revolted, Friday. They have captured ranches and small towns, putting all Spaniards to death and driving other foreigners out of the country.

A new rebellion is reported in full control at Merida with forces marching on Progresso, an undefended port. The Mayas are reported well armed, well mounted and have plenty of money from the loot of government offices and banks and stores in small towns. There are few federals or Maderistas in Yucatan and the natives declare that they will set up their own republic. The Madero governor appointed for Yucatan has been allowed to land, but not allowed to take office.

The people of the state of Tabasco are closely allied to those in Yucatan and are also in revolt with the town governments, mostly in their possession. They refuse to accept Madero's governor and declare they will join Yucatan in secession. Two or 3,000 people in the central plaza of the city shouted "Viva for Yucatan; for a new revolt!"

Wide-Open City.

All saloons and cafes in this city were open all yesterday, the first Sunday in twenty years. There was much drunkenness in the streets and considerable uneasiness was caused by drunken rebels riding through the city in coaches and automobiles with many of their drivers drunk. As night approached the crowds gathered in the zocalo, where a concert was given for Madero. The city was almost without police, as the federal soldiers were in barracks under arms and the 1,000 rebel troops were at San Angel city. The police were not allowed to carry loaded guns.

Americans here accept the report current here that Henry Lane Wilson, the American ambassador to Mexico has asked that he be transferred to some other post as true Ambassador Wilson spent the day outside Mexico City and so has not as yet been seen. The nature of the ambassador's troubles if any exist are not obtainable.

TWO NEW YORK MEN ARE EXECUTED TODAY

Lives Are Ended in "Little House with the Small Door."

Ossining, N. Y., June 12.—In the "little house with the small door" at Sing Sing prison today, Frederick Gebhardt, wife murderer and Thomas Barnes, who killed a companion, were executed. Barnes murdered John P. Leonard in Brooklyn, in February, 1910, and Gebhard killed Anna Luther, whom he married under the name of Otto Mueller in Newark, New Jersey, and after despoiling her of her savings and money she got from her family in Germany, decoyed her to Islip, Long Island, and shot her.

The apprehension of Gebhard rivaled any episode in the career of Sherlock Holmes. October 17, 1909, rabbit hunters found the skeleton of the young woman in the woods near Islip, Long Island.

Search of the woods revealed two sales slips for household utensils issued by a Hamburg, Germany, department store. The German consul general here found the slips were for goods sold to Anna Mueller. Henry Werpupp, of Newark, New Jersey, told the police that an Anna Luther had married an Otto Mueller in his home early in 1908 and that she had disappeared in April. The police traced the Muellers to Long Island City, where they found Mueller, known as Fred Gebhard, and his wife and family. He confessed he had married the girl for the money she had earned as maid for a millionaire and that after getting money from her and her family, he had lured her to Islip and killed her. This confession was afterwards repudiated.

DELAWARE WOMAN GETS INTO TROUBLE

Milliner Charged with Attempting Life of Stepdaughter.

Delaware, O., June 12.—Charged with poisoning her nineteen-year-old step-daughter with intent to kill, Mrs. Jessie R. Way-Henkle, twenty-one, was arrested at noon today by county detective Matthews. She is held, pending a hearing, under $2,000 bond.

The stepdaughter, Miss Merle Henkle, was taken to the City hospital a few days in a serious condition. It is alleged that arsenic was removed from her stomach.

Mrs. Way-Henkle, until recently operated a millinery store here, when it burned down four months ago, she married her present husband, a traveling salesman.

GOVERNOR VETOES GOOD ROADS BILL

Wants To Keep Tax Rate Within the Ten-Mill Limit.

Columbus, O., June 12.—Governor Harmon, by vetoing the Hudson bill for a 1½-mill state levy, and that section of the McGuire highway department bill which increased from 1 to 1½ mills the maximum county road tax, dealt the good-roads movement a body blow. Each measure would have produced in the neighborhood of $3,250,000 a year.

The governor also vetoed the repealing section of the McGuire bill, the effect being to restore the present 1-mill maximum for the county's portion of carrying on the good roads movement. The appropriation bills also carry $440,000 for this year and as much for next year from the state general revenue fund for highway building.

The net effect of the vetoes is to check the good roads movement from faster progress than at present, and to postpone indefinitely the plan of an intercounty system of highways.

Governor Harmon was stirred to this action wholly by a determination to protect the 1 per cent tax rate limit. The McGuire bill excepted the entire 1½-mill county levy, while the Hudson state levy, which would have come within the limit, would have left only 9½ mills available for all other county, municipal, township and school purposes.

The state educational school levy is .451 of a mill, so that in reality only about 9 mills would have been available for local purposes after the taxpayers had paid on an 11½ rate.

MAINE IS STIRRED OVER THE CRIME

Woman Is Found Buried in Her Back Yard Sunday.

Farmington, Me., June 12.—Not in years has this part of Maine been so aroused over a crime as it is today over the discovery of the mutilated body of Mrs. Etta Taylor, which was found buried in a shallow grave in her own door yard yesterday. While the authorities are working to unravel the mystery, the woman's husband, Marshall Taylor, a professional guide, sits stolidly in his cell, evidencing no interest in the accusations against him or the ugly threats of the townspeople. When he was confronted with her body, he displayed no emotion, merely remarking "That's her, all right."

There is also under arrest Gida Searles, a comely woman of twenty-six, who entered Taylor's employ as housekeeper shortly after his wife's disappearance. She is the sister of a notorious wife murderer, now confined in Thomaston prison, and has herself been behind bars for a statutory offense. The authorities say today that the web of evidence is fast closing around the guide, although it is not alleged his companion knew of the crime.

A cork full of thumb tacks kept in the work-basket will be found invaluable when cutting out garments, as the tacks hold the patterns securely and do not wrinkle the goods.

CALEDONIA LODGE HOLDS EXERCISES

Odd Fellows Gather for Memorial Services.

Caledonia, June 12.—[Special.]—Caledonia Lodge, No. 299, I. O. O. F., held the annual memorial services in the lodge room, Sunday afternoon. The hall was well filled in spite of the intense heat.

The opening number was a selection by a quartet composed of R. B. Bell, C. M. Dana, Charles Lykens and O. M. Mill.

Wilbur Bissman, of Mansfield, was introduced as speaker of the day. In his address he gave a brief description of the requirements of a true Odd Fellow, not only as to his duties to the order, but also in his daily walk in life. He spoke of the characteristics of a good lodge member and the solemnity and meaning of the obligation which each member takes and of the good which it should do him in his later years. The address was short, but full of good advice. W. W. Burt read the roster of the dead Odd Fellows, after which Mrs. Belle Rinker read the names of the deceased Rebekahs. Another selection by the quartet was followed by a march to the cemetery.

After the graves had been decorated, the members of the two orders sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and the audience was dismissed.

WILLIAM HILL WILL LEAVE CITY THIS WEEK

F. C. Bartholomew To Succeed Him in Position.

Mr. Hill will leave, next Monday, for Pittsburg where he has accepted a position as physical director of the Central Y. M. C. A. of that city. Mr. Hill's choice came after some hesitation, he having a number of positions offered him. The new position gives him a much larger field to work in and also brings him a nice increase over his present salary. F. C. Bartholomew, who will succeed Mr. Hill as physical director of the local association will report here August 1. Since Mr. Hill has been connected with the association, he has made friends with all he met and his departure is much regretted.

COLLEGE WIDOW IN LIMELIGHT

Is Victim of Alleged Poisoning at Delaware.

HER STEPMOTHER IS UNDER ARREST

Before God, I'm Not Guilty, She Declares.

Father of Victim and Husband of Accused Is Badly Broken Up Over the Affair and Does Not Know with Whom To Side—The Police Gather Evidence That Is Damaging to Prisoner.

Delaware, O., June 13.—As details of the attempted poisoning case in Delaware, in which Mrs. Jessie R. Way-Henkle was arrested yesterday, charged with administering arsenic poisoning "in quantities sufficient to kill" to her pretty twenty-one-year-old stepdaughter, are obtained, local officers state that in many respects the case is almost an exact parallel of the Laura Farnsworth Schenk case at Wheeling.

Added to this fact, it has been learned that Mrs. Henkle was a friend of Mrs. Schenk, and during the trial of the Schenk case she read all the reports closely.

Mrs. Henkle, however, asserts her innocence of the crime.

"Before God, I'm not guilty," Mrs. Henkle declares. "Merle and I have been like sisters."

Miss Henkle, the victim of the poison, is known as the town's "College Widow." It is reported that she is engaged to a young business man here.

A month ago Miss Henkle returned from a house party at Athens, Ohio, suffering from a nervous breakdown. June 2, after her stepmother had cared for her at home for some time, she was taken to Jane Case hospital and an hour later three physicians had pumped two drachms of arsenic from her stomach. The doctors stated that it was the overdose alone that saved her life.

The detectives assert that the poison was served in a glass of grape juice, which Mrs. Henkle gave to the girl the day before she was taken to the hospital.

Father Is Undecided.

J. D. Henkle, father of the victim and husband of the accused, is badly broken up. Confronted with the necessity of siding with either wife or daughter, he is undecided. He is a traveling salesman, prominent here.

B. F. Atkinson, wealthy retired merchant of Caldwell, father of the accused, arrived today and put up the $2,000 bond necessary for her release.

Miss Henkle, as she lies on the cot in the hospital, tells a peculiar story.

"From the moment I was taken ill, I was afraid. Mrs. Henkle and I never agreed. She seemed jealous of my father's attentions to me. After I was sick a few days, I noticed that things tasted peculiarly. Then at night—it was awful. Some times, late, I would wake up with a start and see Mrs. Henkle standing above me in her nightgown.

"Then came the awful day when I thought I was going to die. Papa's wife came in and began telling of an awful dream she had had during the night—told of how she had seen a white hearse pull up in front of the house, and the six men walk up the stairs and carry me out. I was too weak to protest and I just had to endure it."

During her residence in Delaware, Mrs. Henkle has figured quite prominently before the public. She was the proprietor of a millinery store previous to her marriage, five months ago. When the store suddenly burned down the state fire marshals investigated and she was arrested. The grand jury failed to indict her. Investigation developed that she had also operated a millinery store in Caldwell, which was likewise destroyed by fire.

The officials who conducted the investigation into these fires are in Delaware, today, and claim to have new evidence against Mrs. Henkle.

GUIDE CONFESSES TO KILLING WIFE

Maine Man Gives as Reason That He "Hates Her."

Farmington, Me., June 13.—Although Marshall Taylor, guide and mysterious character of this town, has made a full confession of murdering his wife, the authorities today continued their investigation of the crime to uncover whatever knowledge Guida Searles, Taylor's housekeeper, may have of the slaying.

In his confession, Taylor said he murdered his wife because he hated her. After frequent quarrels, he said, he made "arrangements to kill her," and, luring her into the woods, blew the back of her head off with a shotgun. Among Taylor's effects were found scores of letters and postal card, from women with whom he said he corresponded through a matrimonial bureau.

Known in the City.

Miss Merle Henkle, referred to in the Star's despatches from Delaware Tuesday, as the victim of an alleged poisoning plot, is quite well known in this city and vicinity. She has relatives living at LaRue and Prospect.

STORM SWEEPS ATLANTIC COAST

Twenty-Five Reported Killed by Gale.

MANY SMALL VESSELS ARE SENT TO BOTTOM

Wires Thrown Down in Many Cities.

Cities of Baltimore and Washington Are First To Feel the Storm—Gale Sweeps Through Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Then Up Hudson River—South Also Hit. Great Damage Done There.

New York, June 13.—A number of lives—early reports place the figure at twenty-five—were lost, and enormous property damage was caused by a terrific electrical storm which swept the coast from Norfolk to New England late last night and early this morning. It was the fourth storm for New York since Saturday night. Telegraphic and telephone communication has been interrupted, while been uprooted, buildings unroofed hundreds of thousands of trees have and fences and buildings demolished.

Many small vessels and minor craft were swamped in the vicinity of Norfolk and fifteen persons are missing. Three persons were killed in Philadelphia and vicinity and Baltimore and Washington were cut off early today as far as wire communication was concerned.

Big Cities Hit.

It will be several days before communication is entirely restored. For miles to the south, all poles were stretched along the ground, while the big lead cables containing hundreds of wires have been snapped as though they were pieces of twine.

Baltimore, Washington and the Delaware, Maryland and the Virginia peninsula were the first to feel the storm. At Baltimore enormous hail stones broke windows and the terrific peals of thunder, and vivid flashes of lightning threw the negro quarter into hysterics. In the height of the storm, a three-masted sand schooner dragged her anchors and rammed the submarine, Seal, and the Old Dominion liner, Jamestown. Grain elevators were demolished and factories and dwelling houses unroofed. The property loss on the peninsula, including the damage to crops, will probably exceed $500,000.

The storm swept through eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and then up along the Hudson river, leveling substantial structures as though they were pieces of cards.

Leaves Death in Wake.

Richmond, Va., June 13.—Leaving death and destruction in its wake, a storm which attained cyclonic proportions, swept the lower end of the Virginia peninsula last night, and early estimates today place the number of dead at from fifteen to eighteen. None of the bodies, however, have been recovered and none of the dead is known.

At Newport News, houses were unroofed, trees and telegraph poles blown down and shipping disabled, entailing property losses which will probably exceed $100,000.

At Norfolk hundreds of telephones were put out of commission, trolley cars were tied up and the electric power-houses were rendered helpless to furnish lights for hours. Several houses were struck by lightning.

National Capital Hit.

Washington, June 13.—The capital was cut off last evening from all communication with the outside world by a terrific storm which swept over the city. Late in the night, a few roundabout wires were recovered, but no direct connection was possible early today between Washington and New York. Heavy damage was done to trees in the parks of the city, and one workman was electrocuted by a live wire.

Cars Are Unroofed.

Cape Charles, Va., June 13.—During the heavy electric and wind storm here several cars aboard a barge of the New York P. & N. railroad, enroute from Norfolk to Cape Charles in the Chesapeake bay, were unroofed. Captain Forrest, of the tug, Portsmouth, towing the barge, reported the storm the most severe he has ever experienced passing the capes.

Storm Strikes South.

Henderson, N. C., June 13.—A storm of terrific violence accompanied by wind, torrents of rain, last night uprooted trees and damaged crops. Hail stones of unusual size lay upon the sidewalks, and vegetables suffered.

TEXAS TOWN HAS DISASTROUS FIRE

Thirty-Two Stores and Shops Burned at Whitewright.

Dallas, Tex., June 13.—Fire that threatened destruction of the town of Whitewright, Grayson county, practically wiped out the business section and destroyed or damaged more than fifty dwellings. Communication with the place was cut off by the fire yesterday, and the extent of damage was not known until today. Thirty-two stores and shops were destroyed. The fire originated in a mill. Whitewright has about 1,800 population.

JACK JOHNSON IS REIGNING SENSATION

Black Champion Has Things Own Way in London.

London, June 13.—Twenty-four hours after his arrival here, Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight of the world, finds himself the idol of the London populace. No visiting potentate has ever attracted the attention the giant black has, and his every appearance today was marked by crowds so large as to interfere seriously with vehicular traffic.

At Piccadilly, Johnson's automobile was stopped by a group of girls who presented the champion with a huge bouquet. Jack proved his gallantry by arising in his machine and making a brief address to the donors, which was vociferously cheered by the crowd.

At noon, the crowd on Leicester square was so dense that reserve constables had to be summoned to break a way through for the Johnson automobile, with the champion himself driving.

With his silk hat on his head and a big automobile duster encasing his form, he sent the car through the streets at a smart pace and showed by his famous golden smile and general demeanor that he was greatly pleased to find himself the reigning sensation.

BLACK HAND BAND WRECKS TWO SALOONS

Rich Chicagoans Ignore Band's Demands, Explosion Following.

Chicago, June 13.—A band of Black Handers, foiled in their demands for blackmail money, today dynamited two saloons on the South Side, throwing hundreds of persons into a panic.

Ignozia Lottisanto, rich saloonist, paid no attention to Black Hand demands for $500. He showed the letters to Sam Remilla, another rich South Side saloonist, who said he had received similar letters. The men compared the epistles, which were exactly the same. Neither paid the money demanded.

At 3:15 this morning, Lottisanto's saloon was wrecked with a heavily-charged bomb. People in the neighborhood were thrown from their beds.

While the crowd was gathering around Lottisanto's wrecked building, the Black Handers made their way to Remilla's place, a few blocks away, and repeated their work. The damage in each place was $1,000. Both buildings were also used as lodging houses and a number of persons had narrow escapes from death.

ASSOCIATION WILL ERECT MONUMENT

The Ohio-Lincoln Memorial Backers Change Plans.

Columbus O., June 13.—According to plans made by the executive committee of the Ohio-Lincoln Memorial association, the proposed Lincoln memorial to be built in Columbus will be in the form of a permanent monument and will cost $500,000. Resolutions to this effect were adopted in the office of Secretary James Boyle.

For the last few months there has been much talk of a memorial building, but this was deemed inadvisable, as prospective out-of-town contributors, it was thought, might consider such a plan a scheme to give Columbus, as a city, a beautiful building at the expense of outsiders.

HEAVY EARTH SHOCK HITS MEXICO TODAY

Mt. Colima Volcano Breaks Out Again as Result.

Mexico City, June 13.—Another heavy earth shock early today opened a new crater on the west side of Mt. Colima, and both volcanoes now are emitting fire and boiling lava. Great lava stones are rolling down the mountainside into the valley of Ciudad Guzman, where more than 1,000 persons were killed in the quake of 1806.

Today's quake demolished the railroad station at Colima City. No deaths are reported, but many have been added to the list of 500 injured in the recent quakes extending from Colima to Mexico City.

Newark, O., June 13.—William Feurreigel, the eighteenth prisoner to be tried on a first degree murder charge, in connection with the Ethrington lynching last July, pleaded guilty to manslaughter, with consent of the court, after attorneys for the defense had made a statement to the effect that Feurreigel was not directly implicated in the lynching. FAILURE TO REPORT WITHOUT A PENALTY

Doctors and Midwives Can Not Be Punished.

A United Press wire from Columbus Tuesday says:

Physicians and midwives in Ohio can not be punished by the law for failure to report births to local registrars, according to a decision of the supreme court, Tuesday, in the case of the state against Dr. J. J. Boone, of Mt. Victory, Hardin county.

Dr. Watkins, state registrar, said Tuesday he had not learned officially just what the court's decision was.

"If it knocks out the penalty for failure to report births we might as well close up shop, so far as trying to get anything like accurate records of births is concerned," he said.

The plucky woman grabbed the weapon and began to struggle for its possession. Just as her husband, who had been asleep in an adjoining room, rushed in, the negro managed to wrest the weapon from Mrs. White and escaped through a window.

Mrs. White's hands and arms are severely lacerated, but she declared that she was a match for the black fiend.

A DEATH MESSAGE RECEIVED BY FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McClain Lose Little One.

Word has been received here of the death of Charles Otis, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McClain, of Hood River, Oregon. The child was born June 5 and died June 8.

Mr. and Mrs. McClain moved from Marion to Hood River about one year ago.

Retrial Postponed.

Efforts made by the state, Monday, at Toledo, for an immediate retrial of Judge Michael Donnelly for embezzlement were of no avail. Judge C. E. Chittenden allowed the case to go over until September. Judge Donnelly was anxious for an immediate retrial, but owing to the poor health of Judge J. H. Doyle, chief counsel for Donnelly, the court allowed the case to go over.

For white kid slippers which can not be cleaned successfully after having been previously cleaned, buy a ten-cent tube of ivory black art paint. To one-half cupful of gasoline add enough paint to make fluid consistency of cream. Apply evenly with small brush, allow to dry thoroughly, and then polish with any good shoe paste. This does not harden leather and will not wash or rub off.

The most comfortable prop for the invalid or convalescent who wishes to sit up in bed (if you have no regular contrivance at hand) is an ordinary dining-room chair. This is turned upside down, with the front legs braced against the back of the bed or the wall, and the long lines of the back forming an inclined plane. When covered with pillows, it is both firm and comfortable.

Some people do not care to sleep with their bedroom windows open in winter for fear of catching cold. The following plan works splendidly: Procure a piece of wood an inch or two in thickness and exactly the length of the bottom ledge of the window frame. Raise the lower sash, insert the wood, then press the sash down. This allows a current of air to pass through the room without causing a draught.

A marriage license has been issued to Miss Hattie Almeada Kidwell and John J. Seigfried.

MURDER FARM IS SUSPECTED

Jury Renders Verdict in Onion Patch Crime.

RED-HEADED SIREN OF OCEAN VIEW HELD

Woman Views Jury's Finding Indifferently.

In Her Cell She Scoffs at the Police Theories and Declares They May Find Money Hidden in Her Home, but No Bodies—Damaging Evidence Is Expected To Be Unearthed by Officers.

Norfolk, Va., June 13.—The coroner's jury examining into the death of Harry Harding, whose body was found buried in Mrs. Minnie L. Murdock's onion patch, returned a verdict, today, that he came to his death "by having his skull crushed by an axe or other blunt instrument in the hands of Minnie Lee Murdock, or Charles Merkle, or both of them."

The most damaging testimony given at the inquest was by Ida Bateman, who swore that Mrs. Murdock said that she wanted to get rid of Harding and that Charles Merkle said he would "fix it" for her. Search of the premises occupied by Mrs. Murdock was continued, today, by the police in the expectation of finding more bodies, as they are convinced that the "red-headed siren of Ocean View" conducted a murder farm after the fashion of Mrs. Gunness, of Indiana.

Sitting in her cell, Mrs. Murdock scoffed at the police theories. She has already confessed that Merkle killed Harding, while Harding was in her bed and that the blow of the axe awakened her.

"Let them search all they please," said Mrs. Murdock. "They may find money, but they'll not find any more bodies."

The police are confident they will discover evidence to throw some light on several other mysterious disappearances with which Mrs. Murdock is alleged to have been connected.

THE RICHEST NATION

That the per capita wealth of France is greater than that of any other nation in the world has long been an accepted fact. A new demonstration of this situation is published by the Wall Street Journal, which recently printed the following table of the total wealth of the four nations.

United States	$125,000,000,000
Great Britain	89,725,000,000
France	83,000,000,000
Germany	63,500,000,000

The per capita wealth, together with the population of the four nations, is indicated in the following statistics.

Country.	Popula	Per. Cap.
France	40,000,000	$2,075
Great Britain	46,000,000	1,930
United States	90,000,000	1,390
Germany	64,000,000	992

Such a statement as the foregoing makes it simpler to understand why the present community of action of England and France in financial as well as political questions serves to block effectually German aspirations for the extension of political and commercial influence in the near East. At the present time there is lacking to Germany adequate capital for her own industrial expansion at home, and in this situation resembles our own. Germany, for foreign enterprise, must have the aid of Paris or London, aid which in the present state of affairs is steadily refused.—New York Sun.

YAQUIS SEEK LANDS AGAIN

Madero May Have Hands Full with Redskins.

AN INDIAN WAR NOW THREATENED

The Red Men Lay Claim to 600,000 Acres.

The Land, Lying in State of Sonora, Mexico, Is Now Owned by John Hays Hammond, Henry W. Taft and the Richardson Construction Company, of Los Angeles—Indians Are Heavily Armed.

El Paso, Tex., June 13.—To protect the property of John Hays Hammond, Henry W. Taft and their New York and California associates, Madero may have an Indian war to fight out in the state of Sonora.

The Yaquis claim lands owned by the Richardson construction company of Los Angeles and declare that promises were made to them to restore these lands if they fought with the Maderistas in the late revolution. The Indians declare they were despoiled of these lands by the government and others, but agents of the Richardson Construction company declare they have clear titles to 600,000 acres, either by purchase from individual owners or through government grants and concessions, and that much of it has already been sold to innocent homesteaders; also that the company has spent several hundred thousand dollars constructing irrigation enterprises and should be protected for this reason.

Maderista officials appear to think the restoration of lands to the Yaquis is out of the question. The Yaquis, who are heavily armed and known to be stubborn fighters, declare they will accept no other settlement.

John Hays Hammond, Henry W. Taft and their associates came into the possession of the lands three years ago, when the Richardson company needed money to build dams and canals to irrigate the land from the Yaqui river.

Hammond Succeeds.

Mr. Hammond undertook the task of interesting eastern capital and succeeded in securing money from many prominent financiers. Of the 600,000 acres held by the company 25,000 have been sold principally to Californians, mostly Los Angeles people, who would lose their money if the Indians won their fight.

The Indians were armed by the federals at the outset of the revolution and first fought with the federals. Then they turned to the insurrectos, who the Indians say, promised to restore their lands. Now that the Indians are ready for the warpath against both, they have a splendid supply of rifles and ammunition.

The fighters do not know the war is over at Chiapas, Chihuahua and are still fighting, according to reports brought out by couriers, who have been sent to Hermosillo, Sonora, to get somebody with authority to stop the fight. Federal hold the town and insurrectos are trying to take it. The place is isolated and neither band has heard anything more than rumors of peace. Heavy rains yesterday washed out the railroad and telegraph wires between here and Chihuahua, and communications are again cut.

HELP FOR FALSELY ACCUSED

Instances continue of the failure of the criminal law as administered in the various states to provide any relief for the falsely accused.

Some time ago an Arab was arrested in the city of Mexico and taken to Seattle to stand trial for a murder committed there. A fancied resemblance was the only justification for his arrest, and it was not difficult for him to prove his entire innocence. His release promptly followed, but there was no provision in the law to do anything else for him. He was set adrift, penniless and friendless, in a strange land. Unable to make a living, he was finally deported.

This case bears some resemblance to that of Andy Toth, the Pennsylvania man, who served twenty years in prison for a murder that he never committed. Finally, when by mere chance his innocence was established, he was released. But no provision could be made to repay him even in a small part for the years he had spent in prison. Through serving that unjust sentence he had become unfitted for self-support, and it was not long before he clamored to be readmitted to the penitentiary.

Such instances of the law's injustice may not be very numerous, but they happen often enough to show a very serious defect. Our ideas of what constitutes real justice have not, in this particular at least, risen very far above those entertained in medieval days. Certainly they are not yet up to the plane of those of continental Europe, where persons falsely accused are assured of some restitution from the state.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

An Order Received.

Auditor Charles L. Allen has received from the state dairy and food commissioner a letter directing him to enforce the long neglected weights and measure law. Whether it will be enforced in this county remains to be seen.
